- Seeking to expand cultural competence
- Critical thinkers with effective communication skills
- Looking to utilize skills in leadership and professionalism in an international setting.

Why Florence?

The Florentine community is one of Italy's most vibrant centers for creativity, with a rich history and culture of business, finance, and communication. Interns at ISI Florence complement their studies with truly immersive experiences that allow them to engage with locals and international visitors while enhancing career readiness and developing skills that help them define their careers.

Internships in Florence also offer students a constructive way to give back to the community, further broaden intercultural awareness, and see different communities from a more comparative global standpoint – all through dialogue and hands-on experience.
